Jury Gives Rhodes $4,000 Damages Against C. E. Lewis

The suit of Lee C. Rhodes against C. E. Lewis in the corporation court of Lynchburg resulted Wednesday, in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff to whom the jury awarded $4,000 for damages for alleged malicious prosecution. Rhodes was suing for $10,000. The defendant intimated his intention of taking the case to the supreme court of appeals. The plaintiff claimed that he had been prosecuted in the police court without sufficient cause.

In the course of the trial Tuesday, John L. Lee, an attorney for the plaintiff, was fined $20 for contempt of court after throwing a glass at James T Carter, of the Piedmont Lumber Company, who was on the witness stand.

Mr. Lee had asked Mr. Carter why he had paid a certain amount of money to compromise a former law suit instead of fighting it out in court, and Mr. Carter replied to the effect that he had paid for the compromise rather than to have come in contact with "such men as John L. Lee." Mr. Lee then picked up a drinking glass containing water and struck Mr. Carter on the shoulder with it.

He was fined $50 by Judge Frank P. Christian, who also requested him to leave the room temporarily. Mr. Lee afterwards apologized to the court.

Mike

We are indeed glad to say that Mrs. Ella Tibbs is convalescent at this writing. Mr Martin Hancock, her uncle, of Bluefield, W. Va., is visiting her.

Mr. Edgar Marshall visited his sister, Mrs. Mag Williamson, last week-end.

Mr. Willie Burton Harvey had the misfortune to lose a fine colt recently.

On last Sunday Mr. T. B. Joy, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Williamson and little daughter Margaret, and Mr. and Mrs. Moody Martin motored to Bedford City and spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Watson. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mr. Joy and Mr. Williamson visited the Peaks of Otter, reaching the top at sunset. The crew all started up the mountain but only two reached the top; the others got tired and discouraged when within about a hundred yards of the top and turned back.

Lots o' tobacco was sold from around here last week on different markets, all being perfectly satisfied with their prices.

Hurtsville

Mr. Repass has moved in, and of course the cub reporter of Hurtsville was on the job when he did so. Mr. Repass brought eight head of horses with him, one cow, all household goods, farming implements, hay, grain, etc. His married son came with him and is going to stay here, but Mrs. McAphee and Mr. Butts, who also came with him, are not going to stay unless they can buy a farm. The neighbors around here helped him to move. Mr. Repass came from Washington county.

Mr. D. M. Forbes has moved to Sandy Ford.

Pitzer—Anderson

One of the prettiest weddings of the autumn, in which the autumn flowers, white chrysanthemums, predominated in decorations, completed in palms and candles, was that Thursday evening at 6 o'clock, of Miss Rama Mary Anderson, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S Anderson, of 1017 Court street, and George Lewis Pitzer, of Roanoke, son of Mrs. Margaret Pitzer, of that place Dr James D. Paxton, of the First Presbyterian church, was celebrant, and Miss Emma Adams, at the piano, played Mendelsohn's wedding march as a processional, and Sabit d' Amour during the ceremony. Miss Leone Anderson, in a costume of rose-pink net and silver cloth, and carrying white chrysanthemums, was maid of honor, and the groom was attended by Thomas Trimmer, of Roanoke, as best man. The bride, who entered with her father, was costumed in a modish suit of midnight blue tricotine, with hat in tone, and furs. Her flowers were bride roses and swansonia arranged as a shower bouquet. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for northern points, including New York and Washington.

A dance was given that evening by Miss Leone Anderson, the bride's sister, to the bridal party and out-of town guests, at the home.

The visiting guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hoogc, of Roanoke; Miss Bessie Tompkins, of Salem; George Pitzer and Edward Burnett, of Roanoke; Vance Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Ligon, of Huntington.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitzer will live in Roanoke.—Lynchburg News

One Way to Advertise.

Some years ago a New York firm manufacturing paper water cups got on its legs because of laws in New York and New Jersey prohibiting use of public drinking cups. The firm distributed its wares by messenger and wagon. Money came rolling in. Then came the automobile era, and this firm bought a number of delivery trucks to expedite its growing business. The war came, and it didn't stop the drinking of water and the chance of germs. The influenza epidemic, in fact, was a boon for the paper cup manufacturer. It is noted that this manufacturer is now sending five-ton trucks around the city with his wares. A cargo of paper cups cannot weigh more than 200 pounds, but it looks well on a five-ton plant. There may be a waste of energy, but it pays to advertise and, above all, it pays to advertise properly.—Wall Street Journal.

Does the Horse Lie Down?

One occasionally sees the statement that horses seldom if ever lie down, says Dumb Animals. That there are horses whose carelessness in sleep has seen them resting in that way we do not question, because we have heard from gentlemen who have carefully observed them. But no one who knows anything about horses and who has seen them stretched out at full length in pastures and in their stalls, and who has noticed the unmistakable evidences on the horses themselves in the morning of having lain down, will credit the assertion. Many a horse is doubtless too sensible to lie down on a rough, filthy, unbedded floor, but give him a comfortable, well-bedded stall, and not only will he lie down but repay his owner with better condition and more years of usefulness because of the more perfect rest thus obtained.

Politics and the Farm.

Some years ago the private car of former President McKinley stopped in the early morning at a little country town. The president, looking out of the window, saw a barefooted boy drive up a cow from the ground where she had reclined during the night that he might stand on the spot warmed by the animal's body. "How often I have done that same thing," remarked the president to the members of the presidential party, a number of whom were United States senators, whereupon to his surprise he discovered that nearly every individual present claimed formerly to have been a barefooted farm boy and to have had the same experience.

The City of Light.

To me the real Ville Lumiere is New York. It scatters lights with the prodigal richness with which the heavens scatter stars. It strings them in long lines; it banks them in towering facades; it flings them in handfuls up into the darkness; it writes them on the sky. Twilight offers you a special beauty because wherever you are in the city it brings out for you in one window or another that first wan, primrose-colored beacon—in some ways more beautiful than the evening star. Behind the star you don't know what there is.—From "The City of Comrades," by Basil King, in the Saturday Evening Post.

Music.

Music is the crystallization of sound. There is something in the effect of a harmonious voice upon the disposition of its neighborhood analogous to the law of crystals. It centralizes itself and sounds like the published law of things. If the law of the universe were to be audibly promulgated, no mortal ear ever would suspect it, but would be a finer melody than his ears ever attended to. It would be sphere music.

When I hear music I feel no danger. I am invulnerable. I see no foe. I am related to the earliest times and to the latest.—Thoreau.

Age to Begin Study of Music.

You cannot start a child too early in the elementary knowledge of music, many great artists have been quite credit the assertion. Many a horse is doubtless too sensible to lie down on for beginning daily for Lynchburg Parlor car

Keeping the Watch.

One last week's Sunday-Class: In a homely chat on favorite hymns the'son and hubs said he liked that one best where the little Jew boy stole the old gentleman's watch! The hymnal index was consulted here, and the reference took some searching for. Here it is, familiar to all:

The old man sleek and mild,
The priest of Israel, slept;
His watch the Temple child.
The little Levite, kept.
—London Chronicle.

Optimistic Thought.

An emperor traveling as a man has the cares of a man.

Explaining Geysers.

In a word, the whole secret of the intermittent geyser lies in a subterranean reservoir, the contents of which are forced out by steam expansion every time it gets filled up. The Yellowstone park is a region which not so very long ago was fiercely volcanic. In that role it has ceased to play an alarming part, but locally the earth's crust is extremely thin. A very literal hell rages not far beneath the places frequented by tourists, and thence is derived the heat that causes the outbursts of the geysers.

Still Searching for Atlantis.

Phoenician tradition ascribed to the people of Atlantis a high civilization. During the last few years scientific expeditions, in pursuit of natural history "specimens," have made explorations of the sea bottom in that region. How interesting it would be if their dragnets brought up from the depths some fragment coming from drowned towns of the lost continent.

Sturdy Old Italian Dame.

The women of the lower classes in Italy are indefatigable workers. They have to be, and do all sorts of laborious and unwomanly tasks, according to our American ideas. In fact, the traveler in Italy is almost convinced that the women do all the work, while the men do the talking. Age is no barrier to feminine activity, for one old crone at least eighty, to judge from her wrinkled face and tottering steps, was photographed carrying an immense basket of fagots, all alone, across one of the busiest streets in lovely Lugano in Italy.

Rice Culture Progress.

The culture of rice is alluded to in the Talmud, and there is evidence that it was grown in the valley of the Euphrates before 400 B. C. It was taken into Persia from India, and later into Spain by the Arabs. Thence its culture was introduced into Italy about A. D. 1468.

Mrs. Catherine Lucado

Mrs. Catherine Lucado, widow of the late Elisha H. Lucado, died at her home near Appomattox Courthouse last Friday evening, Nov. 21, at the age of 70 years, after a brief illness of pneumonia.

She was buried Sunday evening by the side of her husband, in the family burying ground, where a large crowd of her friends and kinsfolk had gathered to pay the last tribute of respect to one whom they had known and loved so well.

Rev. C. W. McElroy conducted the funeral services at the grave, where she was carried from the home by her six sons—Joseph, Littleton, Ed, William, Robert H. and Ira, who acted as pall bearers. Others present bore testimony of the many virtues of the deceased.

Misses Lois Lucado, Mary Bingham, Carrie Lucado, Bernice Bingham, Mable Lucado, Virginia Lucado, Nettie Lucado, Pearl Lucado, Madaline Bingham and Mrs. Gladys Bingham Woodson, carried and placed upon the grave of their grandmother many beautiful floral designs.

Deceased was born May 5, 1849, and at the age of twenty she married her late husband, Elisha H. Lucado, who died fifteen years ago. She leaves surviving her nine children—William H. Lucado, Robert H. Lucado, Littleton T. Lucado, Joe Lucado, Ed. L. Lucado, Ira Lucado, Mrs J. R. Bingham, Mrs. J. H Furness, and Mrs J. Robert Dose; forty grand-children and five great grand-children, all of Appomattox county.

This mother, grandmother and great-grandmother was the youngest child of Abednego Conner, who raised to grown-up manhood and womanhood sixteen children, all of whom have for the past fifty years been numbered among the county's best and most honored citizens; and of this large family only two are living, Mr Jennings Conner and Mrs. Daniel P. Ferguson.

With the passing of this good mother, we can but imbibe the sentiment of the following lines:

We cannot, Lord, thy purpose see,
But all is well that's done by thee;
The trial was hard, but we'll not complain,
But trust in God to meet again.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our thanks for the kindness shown us during the illness and death of our dear mother, Mrs. Catherine Lucado.
